

Pork Butt Weekly Write-Up

Intro

Oh man where to begin with this shit show of a week? All the league's QBs failed to put up twenty or more points, defenses were absent except the Texans. Vikings, Raiders, Packers, Seahawks, Goddamn Jets were all winners this week, go fuck yourself. Bears, Cowboys, Giants were the epitome of the league. Da Bears offensive line has more holes than Mike's underwear. Cowboys got anally destroyed by the Saints (should be a crime how bad the fucking went there), and the Giants scored three TD's, but could not get the extra points (due to a freak injury to Gano) which is something none of us are surprised about.

Game of the Week

Dino vs Josh

Had to choose a GOTW, and this was the only matchup that was close. I honestly believe that if Hawk Tua had some what of brain (it has been served an eviction notice) Josh pulls out the victory with Tyreek getting points as fast as he makes kids (ala, Chuck Hildreth style). Ironically, Dino has Hawk Tua as is QB1, and most people do not recover from losing QB1 mid game, yet he managed to outlast the massive game by Achane, to rollup with a 127-114 victory.

Matchups

Andrew vs Brandon

This game was close, on Wednesday, once Thursday rolled around Brandon hit the gas and never looked back. Then Sunday showed up and Kamara went fucking nuts for forty-three points ending the slaughter at 152-70.50.

Dave vs Jason

Oh, this one stung, like Wednesday morning after Taco Tuesday (you know, with the habanero salsa added to the fourteen street tacos you consumed the night before). This was a close game, prediction was Jason by two points, until Da Bears took a shit on Sunday night. Jason balled out (like grandpa at Thanksgiving when a testicle falls out of his boxers) thanks to Nico Collins have a great game. All was not lost though; Dave did manage to break the 100-point barrier this week. Final in this pipe dream was 152-105

Jake vs Sky

Sky has the hottest RB room in the league right now, and if he has an RB going on Thursday night, watch out, sumbitch has scored six TDs on Thursdays from the RB position, I know, I was a victim of it last week, Jake was a victim this week. Jake did compete for a time but end the end Sky's Thursday night performance was too much to overcome as he cruised to a 173-132 victory.

Mike vs Rich

Mike is quickly earning the Bowie award for the 2024 season as his players are getting injured in a way that is fucking him hard. Rich, this year's sleeper is proving that the 2023 season was a fluke and is quickly emerging as league power for 2024. The story of this game was Mike's injuries, and Rich's solid team performance. Rich moved to 2-0 with a 92-73 victory.

Final Handy

I do not know about you, but personally I am glad week 2 is over. Our standings now have the upper class (those who are 2-0), middle class (those who are 1-1), and the lower class (those who are 0-2), you know which class you are, no need for me to say it. While we are still in the honeymoon phase of 2024, shit is getting real (like that TSA cavity search Jake will get while traveling to Mexico) and it is time to start thinking about improving your position or holding it. With that, may your beer be cold, Karma finds you today, and fuck your team....’mish out.
