

Pork Butt Weekly Write-Up

Intro

All right then, let us start this week by giving some street cards to the NFL winners this week. Up in Green Bay the Packers absolutely man piped the Cardinals (this was an embarrassment for the Cardinals). Across the pond Da Bears dismantled a desperate Jaguars team. That it? That is all the winners we have from week six? Well, fuck me, let us move onto the hose teasers. Seahawks lost to division rival Frisco. Down in Vegas we saw the Raiders fail again as they were not able to produce or compete against the Steelers. (In other Raiders news, they are allowing Tuck Rule Brady to become a ten percent owner of the team. Who is your daddy now Vegas?). The men of New Jersey, the one is wearing blue (aka the Giants) showed that their defense is damn good, but that offense is rubbish (reminded me a lot of past Bears teams). Dallas got accustomed by the Lions, in Dallas, on Jerry's birthday. This was fitting as that run game of Dallas is rubbish, was rubbish, still rubbish. Finally, this brings us to the Goddamn Jets, on MNF. Freshly off getting rid of the scape goat (Saleh) for shitty Rodgers play people thought they would run the ball, own the Bills, get a win at the home stadium, in New Jersey. But no. The Goddamn Jets looked fucking awful as the world watched.

Heading into our week six things are starting to take shape for the playoffs as we hit the halfway point of our season. Only seven weeks left to shit or get off the pot. Several bubble teams (I am looking at Mike, Josh, Jake, Brandon, Jason) need to move to separate themselves from the chaff if they want to secure a ticket to the postseason. I digress, we shall move forward.

Game of the Week

Jason vs Brandon

I kept close eyes on this game as the implications were big for the winner. Brandon wins, he securely moves to the top four in the league, while a win for Jason sets him firmly among the bubble teams. This game was within five points most of the matchup, until MNF when Jason started pulling away with solid play from Josh Allen. Brandon kept pace amongst the first quarter, but was not able to make ground as the Jets implemented the Dallas run game. In the end Allen's play was too much for Brandon to overcome, as he fell 114-100.

Matchups

Josh vs Dave

Josh played catchup from whistle to whistle in this matchup. Dave jumped out to a huge sixty-point lead (thanks to Da Bears playing in London) and Josh was not able to catch him. Enter MNF, Josh was trailing by forty-three, he had Wilson and the Jets D/ST going. Victory was obtainable, but not visible. In the end, Dave kept the lead and won 136-118.

Jake vs Mike

Every time these two teams play it is always a close game, history has proved this, and current times do not disappoint. The score flipped back and forth a couple of times early in the game, but heading into the final stretch, Jake was clinging to a paltry fourteen-point lead. Mike competed, closed the game, got Jake's lead down to nine and half points, but that was as close as he was gonna get. Jake walks away victoriously, 140-130.5.

Sky vs Dino

By far the closest game we have this week. Sky was looking to remain at the top of the standings while Dino was looking to secure a solid spot in the middle of the playoff hunt. At times I thought this game was going to empty the benches to find a winner as they were tied several times. However, cooler heads prevailed, Sky eked out the victory 119-118.50.

Andrew vs Rich

It was Andrew's turn to take down the leagues only undefeated. Rich has a good team; Andrew is cunning at pulling off upsets. Rich was the heavy favorite heading into this, and he was not disappointed. Showing how strong his team can be, he cruised to the victory 158-95. Currently locking his place as the one seed, and the team to beat in the league.

Playoffs

If the playoffs start today, here are the top six teams. They are listed in ranking order.

#1 Rich

#2 Sky

#3 Dave

#4 Jason

#5 Brandon

#6 Dino

The Sack

The race for the best hat on Earth has begun, and these teams are leading the way.

- Andrew

Toppers

POS	NAME	POINTS
QB	Mayfield	35
RB	Robinson & Henry	25
WR	Wilson	24
TE	Kmet	24
FLEX	Mixon	27
D/ST	Saints	18.50
K	Koo & Tucker	12
TEAM	Rich	158

Bottoms

POS	NAME	POINTS
QB	Prescott	1
RB	White	0
WR	Pierce & Harrison JR	0
TE	Freiermuth	3
FLEX	Gesicki	0
D/ST	The Goddamn Jets	3.5
K	Bass	1
TEAM	Andrew	95

Draft Order

1. Andrew
2. Mike
3. Josh
4. Jake
5. Dino
6. Brandon
7. Dino (via Jason)
8. Dave
9. Sky
10. Rich

Final Handy

We saw some close games, some boring matchups, and some dominate victories this week. Rich remains unbeaten as the rest of us start fighting for playoff spots. The time is now, the hunt is afoot, your playoff hopes, dreams, aspirations need to be addressed. There are several teams who can still make the coveted playoffs, if they make the right decisions, and get some serious luck. For one team, the current season will be a wash with one more loss, then they can step into the spoiler role. We have seven weeks remaining, buckle up, bite down on the wooden peg, the Grind is going to beat us down, wear us out, show us who the Alter boys are. With that, may your beer be cold, Karma finds you today, and fuck your team....'mish out.