

Tanking Rule

Requirements to fulfill a weekly roster:

- A player must be submitted to each position who is physically able to play, i.e., not on NFL bye week, not on Injured Reserve
- The player must be on an active NFL roster

Penalty for knowingly not fielding a team

The infractions do not get erased at the end of the current season; the infractions will remain with a manager until they are no longer in the league.

First offense:

Immediate league vote to remove manager.

In the event a manager is removed from a current season that is in play (regular season weeks one (1) to thirteen (13)) the remaining managers will field the team of the removed manager via this process:

1. Each remaining manager will be assigned a position that they will submit a player from the removed manager's current roster.
2. Remaining managers will need to submit the best qualified player available for said position.
3. Remaining position's will be filled by the 'Mish using the best qualified player available for said position.

Second offense:

'Mish will remove the manager(s) immediately from the current season, and impose a lifetime ban for future seasons.
