

Pork Butt Playoff Write-Up

The Final Dance

#1 Jason v #3 Sky

We were gifted with a tense matchup for the championship as these two went toe-to-toe. Jason jumped out to the first lead, Sky countered and took the lead, then Jason took it back, which Sky quickly countered. At the end of the third quarter Jason was chasing a thirty-eight-point deficit, but he had a couple of solid scorers left to play. Bijan Robinson led the way with a solid thirty-nine points, giving him a one-point lead late in the game. Enter the duo of Williams and Nakua and Jason were able to cruise to victory, and his franchise's first championship. The final score may not reflect how tight this game was, but the final score was 167.5-130.5.

The Consolation

#2 Jake v #4 Dave

When I predicted this game, I went by the numbers and figured this would be a close game, favoring Jake. The only aspect of this prediction was that the happy ending would favor Jake. His team put up serious numbers (Henry 45, Watson 22, Jones Sr 15) from players that normally produce modest averages. The closest Dave got in this matchup was 45-41.5, and that was at half. The final in this slaughter was 173.5-130 Jake.

Mish Picks

CORRECT	INCORRECT	PCT
5	1	83

Overall, I think I did well with the playoff predictions. I would have been perfect had it not been for the upset of Chaka's matchup, thanks bud, that is why we do not have nice things in this league.

Final Handy

It seems like the season went by too fast but the reality of it is that things went smoothly. We were gifted with a great championship game (not like the '85 Super Bowl), and a lackluster consolation game (like Super Bowl 24), which made the last games of our season entertaining, which is all we want. With that, may your beer be cold, Karma finds you today, and fuck your team....'mish out.